DETAILED ACTION

1. The current title is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Art Rejections:

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Platt et al, European patent application No. 2,296,799.

Platt discloses a system for processing client queries comprising:

Serial No. 09/718,526

a) a plurality of memories (367, 377, fig. 4A) in a plurality of servers (330, 340, fig. 4A), each memory containing a partition of a database, i.e., a segment of a key-ordered list of data objects where each segment (table 3 and table 4) consists of a contiguous subset of data objects having keys (PEOPLE) with a specified range (see page 13, line 31 - page 14, line 19),

b) a query processor (440, fig. 4A) for receiving the query and, based on data content of the query, directs each received query to one of the plurality of servers, combining the results and directing the results back to the client (see col 11, lines 10-36).

Platt does not describe the query processor in details. An official notice is taken that the operation of such query processor for analyzing client query is well known in the art.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize any known comparable query processor in Platt to direct queries to appropriate database servers and allow queries to be processed in parallel (see col 5, lines 17-22).

Per claims 7 and 28, it would have been further obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to perform data updates on the databases because it would have enabled properly operating Platt's distributed databases.

Serial No. 09/718,526
